10 Soap Cinch makes bathing easier in cramped RVs

Greg Gerber posted on March 10, 2011 13:14

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. – A jumble of soap, washcloths, loofahs and sponges can make for a mess in compact boat and RV showers. But just because there's no room for a cabinet full of products, there's no need to sacrifice the pleasure of bathing.

The patented all-in-one Soap Cinch lathers, scrubs and exfoliates for glowing, silky-smooth skin while traveling or at home.

The natural hemp pouch prevents bar soap from slipping out of soapy hands. Soap Cinch hangs out of the way to dry, eliminating slimy soap dishes. Instead of soap slivers going to waste, Soap Cinch uses the whole bar.

The soft bag gives extra attention to rough hands and feet. Instead of a back brush, users can wash hard-to-reach places by holding Soap Cinch's elastic strap and drawstring loop. Soap Cinch is also a great way to remove oils after a day of tanning.

Hypoallergenic, the latex-free Soap Cinch contains no inks or other skin irritants. Unlike loofahs and mesh sponges that allow bacterial growth, it's machine washable.

Soap Cinch has a suggested retail price of just $14.95 for three. It's also available at wholesale prices and can be branded with company logos to promote a business or cause. Soap sold separately.
